

From: Margaret Woolley Busse
To: Kristin Alexander
Subject: FW: first look at post-June 23 website
Date: Wednesday, July 27, 2011 4:27:53 PM

Kristin—Can you print out the email below so we can have it as a reference when we discuss blog posts?

Thanks,
Margaret

From: Celia Kent [mailto:celia.kent@gmail.com]
Sent: Sunday, July 24, 2011 10:13 PM
To: Jim Snyder-Grant
Cc: Margaret Woolley Busse
Subject: Re: first look at post-June 23 website

Hi Jim, your list is good. I wrote down that given that developing Kelly's corner and Protecting historic character with strong design review got the most dots "votes" at the public meeting, we thought the first blog questions should focus on that...what should be the character expressed by the redevelopment of Kelly's Corner? What should the design of a town center say about who we are as a community?

I've been traveling to a conference so am about to check out your posts from two days ago. Will let you know if I have any suggestions...Celia

On Sun, Jul 24, 2011 at 10:00 PM, Jim Snyder-Grant <jimsg@newview.org> wrote:
Margaret: I lost the notes from Celia. Here's some possible blog posts, some from memory, some made up fresh. We don't need these before sending the reminder out, we only need the small web site adjustments you specified.

Celia: Do have some extra memories of blog posts?

1. A general one that repeats (in blog-ese) the summary of results from the news page
2. One asking for more feedback on which village or town center to focus on first, and ask for why.
3. One asking for more articulation of what our 'town's character' is, to make some progress on the discussion we started as a committee.
4. perhaps (eventually) one per town center or village, to focus even more on what is special already, and what mixed use redevelopment would look like.
5. The strategies, after we review and approve them, perhaps by goal (with an understanding that most strategies cut across goals)